CALL FOR PAPERS

for the

Christian Engineering Conference

CEC-2019

The Christian faith and engineering: foundations and intersections in education, theory, and practice

At Dordt College, Sioux Center, IA
July 11-13, 2019

Abstracts of 200 to 400 words for conference papers and posters are now being accepted for the 2019 Christian Engineering Conference. Proposals for panel discussions or breakout sessions are also welcome. The deadline for submissions is Dec 31, 2018. Final papers for accepted abstracts will be due April 1, 2019. Suggested topics include but are not limited to:

- Engineering as a Christian Vocation
- Witnessing to the Engineering Profession through Work
- Engineering Problems that Christians Ought to Care About
- Mentoring Students for Kingdom Careers in Engineering
- Engineering, Technology, and Ethics
- The Influence of Christians on Technology
- How to Connect Industry, Academia, and/or Mission-based Engineering in Mutually Beneficial Ways

- The Influence of Christians on Technology
- Interactions Between Technology and Culture
- The Relationship between the Church and Technology
- A Christian Approach to Philosophy of Technology
- Sustainable Design
- Diversity, Reconciliation, and Justice in Engineering and Technology
- Christian Pedagogy

This Conference has often focused on education, but we also invite submissions from Christian engineers in the workplace, missions, and academia.

After acceptance, authors must prepare a written paper for publication as well as a 20-minute oral presentation of their work. Proposals for panel discussions should include a topic and suggested panelists.

Poster presentations are invited as well as conference papers.

The CEC is a "publish-and-review-to-present" conference: to present at the conference, you must have your paper accepted for publication in the Proceedings and have at least one author available to participate in the peer review process for both abstract and draft paper submissions. Papers accepted for publication must be presented in person at the conference by at least one registered conference participant.
